. . . To talk of many things:
Of shoes — and ships — and sealing wax —
Of cabbages — and kings —
And why the sea is boiling hot —
And whether pigs have wings"
— Lewis Carroll

While the leaves of autumn crunch under your footsteps as you visit the campus of Radnor for the first time, you don't realize all of the people you will meet, the many things you will learn, or all of the valuable experiences you will have for the next four years that seem so long. You only know that most of your tomorrows will be spent there.

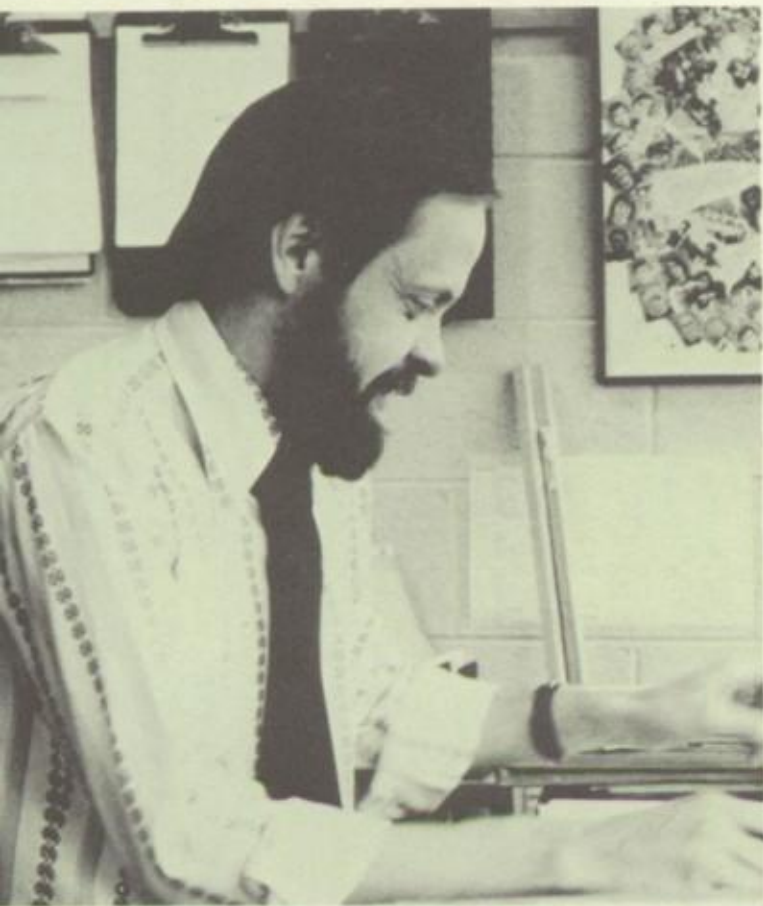

While the rays of the summer sun shine on you as you leave Radnor for the last time, those four seem suddenly short. You know then that you shall never forget all the memories held in those yesterdays which were once your tomorrows . . .

In appreciation of his guidance, interest, and support throughout our four years at Radnor High, the 1977 Yearbook Staff proudly dedicates this book to Donald E. McKinney . . .

In times that we've been glad
and times we've been sad,
You've always been there to lend a hand.

We wish there was a way
We could do more than say,
"Thank you,"
for being our friend.

Radnor, Pa. 19087

Home, the spot of earth supremely blest, a dearer, sweeter spot than all the rest.

It was a crisp November day, colored with streamers and excitement. There were pompoms that swayed in time with the band while confetti flitted and followed the autumn breezes. Our players were covered with sweat and fatigue, their jerseys gleaming throughout the battle. The crowd was ecstatic, filled with winning fever while the Indian and the scoreboard danced.

That afternoon the sun set in our end zone, and the bonfire blazed that night.

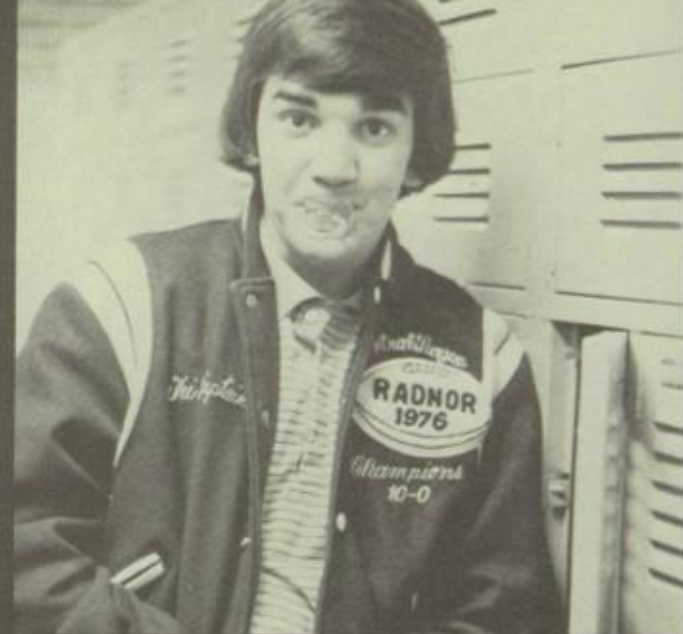

I have wandered through this world
As each moment has unfurled,
I have been waiting
To awaken from these dreams.
People go just where they will,
I never noticed them until
I got this feeling
That it's later than it seems.
— Jackson Browne

I've been lately thinking about my lifetime, all the things I've done and how it's been. And I can't help believing in my own mind, I know I'm gonna hate to see it end . . . How long it's been since yesterday, what about tomorrow, what about our dreams and all the memories we've shared?

— John Denver

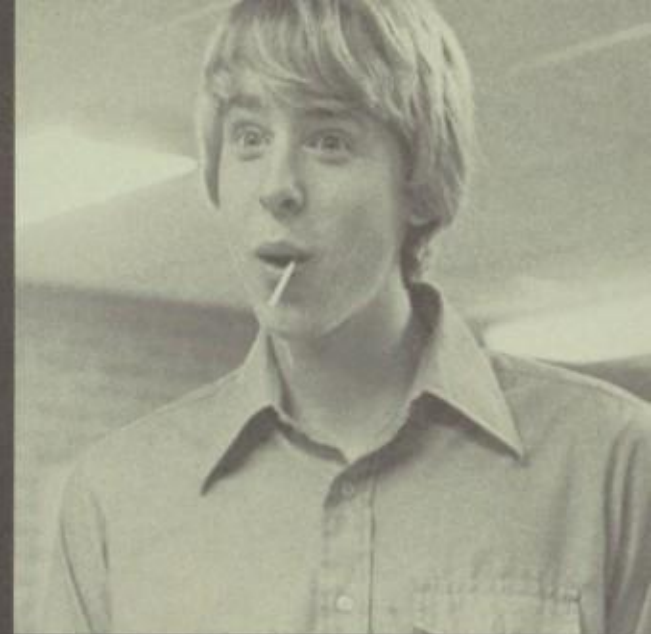

Things that you held high
And told yourself were true
Are lost or changing as the days
come down to you.
Joni Mitchell

From further down the track . . .
— Carly Simon
James Taylor

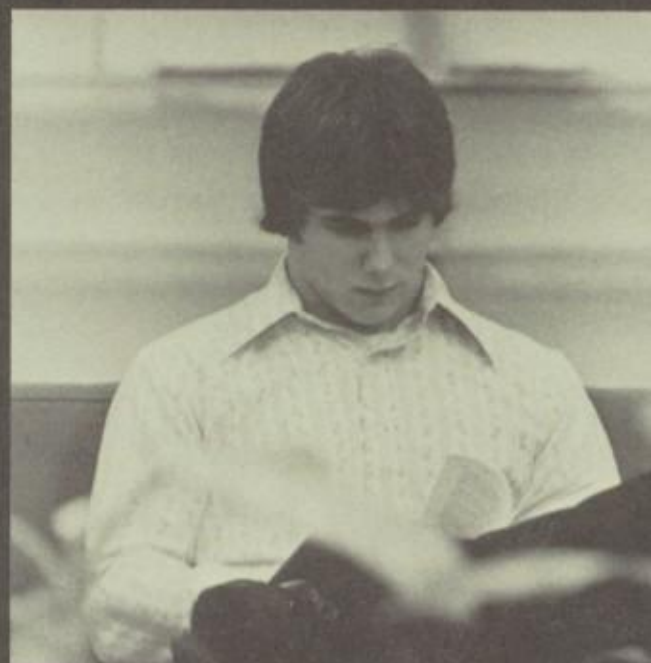

And if I sometimes feel
In retrospect
A regret for the waste of my youth,
Then I pause to reflect
That I still have time
Before growing long in the tooth,
To acheive all the things that
That I should have acheived,
When idleness led me astray,
And being aware of what I have missed,
I'm extending my use of the day.
— David Cousins

Hey Tomorrow,
Where are you going?
Do you have some room for me?
'Cause night is fallin',
And the dawn is callin',
I'll have a new day,
if she'll have me.
— Jim Croce

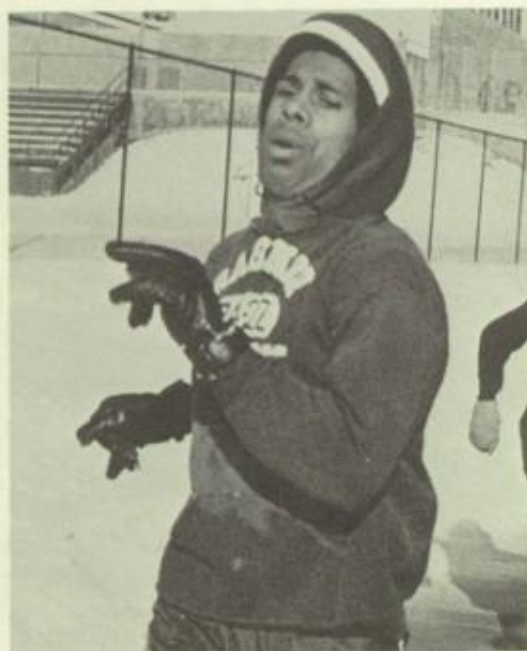

All the changes, keep on changing,
And the good old days, they say they're gone. Only wisemen and some newborn fools say they know what's going on. But I sometimes think the difference is just in how I think and see, and that the only changes going on are going on in me.
— Harry Chapin

Time goes, you say? Ah no —
Alas, time stays, we go!

The Winter of '77, it was the coldest on record, and where were you when the morning winds whipped the chill factor down to record lows? Probably where the rest of us were . . . at the bus stop. When that sudden snowstorm struck one afternoon, wasn't that you about a mile and a half away, pumping your tired legs towards campus as the bitter cold scorched your lungs, and the frozen slush crunched underfoot? How many classes did you sit through clad in a cumbersome winter coat, with your hands curved around a steaming cup of coffee complaining, and wondering why "they" didn't close school. And how many people had to tell you that the Governor HAD closed school for three days due to the energy crisis, before you packed up your skis and headed for the Poconos? Why did you spend all day skating until your ankles ached and your feet went numb just so you could thaw out by the fire with a mug of hot cocoa, like you used to when you were little? And what was it like for the first time to have enough snow on the ground to go midnight sledding at Zantzinger's with your buddies? It was white and wonderfully cold, it was winter . . .

Linda Ann, thats a nice name, Anyway, we finally made it, hum? I think we had a great time this year, between mrs mignones class<sup>in 11th grade</sup> and the crayola crayons it was fun. sitting behind carin in mrs mignones class watching her pick her face. Well, it looks like she got her wish, now she looks like faira faucett, so the radmoate says. Thats when you liked mark J. remember? it wasnt too long after that, when you two got together at the carnival, (on the bleachers, not the little bleachers though) theres only one set of little bleachers right?! what a night that was for match making, Kate and Brook got together that night too and I forget how many other couples. How about that's Christmas party, then it was you and I here. I'll never forget when we were in 11th grade going out side of the A wing in the dead of winter just for a lousy cig. god it was cold! speaking of winter just look at the picture above, and then you'll see what I'm talking about just follow the little arrow.

"Men say the winter was bad that year;

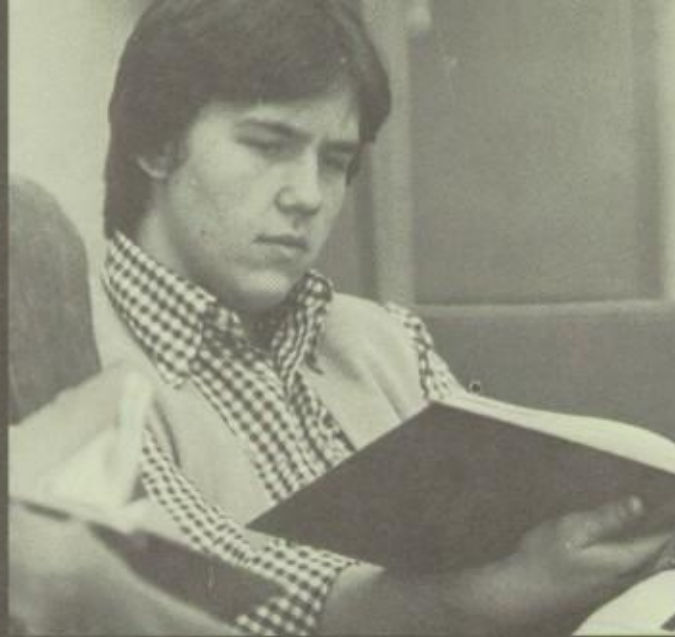

Fuel was scarce and food was dear.

A wind with a wolf's head howled about our door."

— Enda St. Vincent Millay

Summer ill see ~~of~~ you over the summer, keep in touch have a good year at school next year, you all come back now, ya hear? Love Amy, P.s when you come back I expect to hear some kind of an account OK. KUY.

Dreams and schemes and circus
crowds,
I've looked at life that way.
But now old friends are acting
strange,
They shake their heads,
They say I've changed.
Well, something's lost
But, something's gained
In living everyday.
I've looked at life from both sides now,
From win and lose, and still somehow,
It's life illusions I recall,
I really don't know life, at all.
— Joni Mitchell

So many faces in and out of my life,
Some will last, some will just be now
and then.
Life is a series of hellos and goodbyes —
I'm afraid it's time for goodbye again.
— Billy Joel

Old days,
Good times I remember.

You can return to the place,
But not the time.

There's no straight lines make up my life
And all the roads have bends
There's no clear-cut beginnings
And so far, no dead ends.

All my life's a circle
But I can't tell you why
Seasons spinning 'round again
The years keep rollin' by.
— Harry Chapin

People live from day to day
They do not count the time.
They don't see the days slipping by
— And neither do I.
— James Taylor

Now I've just gotten older
I've just gotten taller,
And the little ones,
They call me a grown-up.

Have no preconceived ideas
Of how things have to be,
I'll just take life as it comes
And hope that it takes me.
— Dave Mason

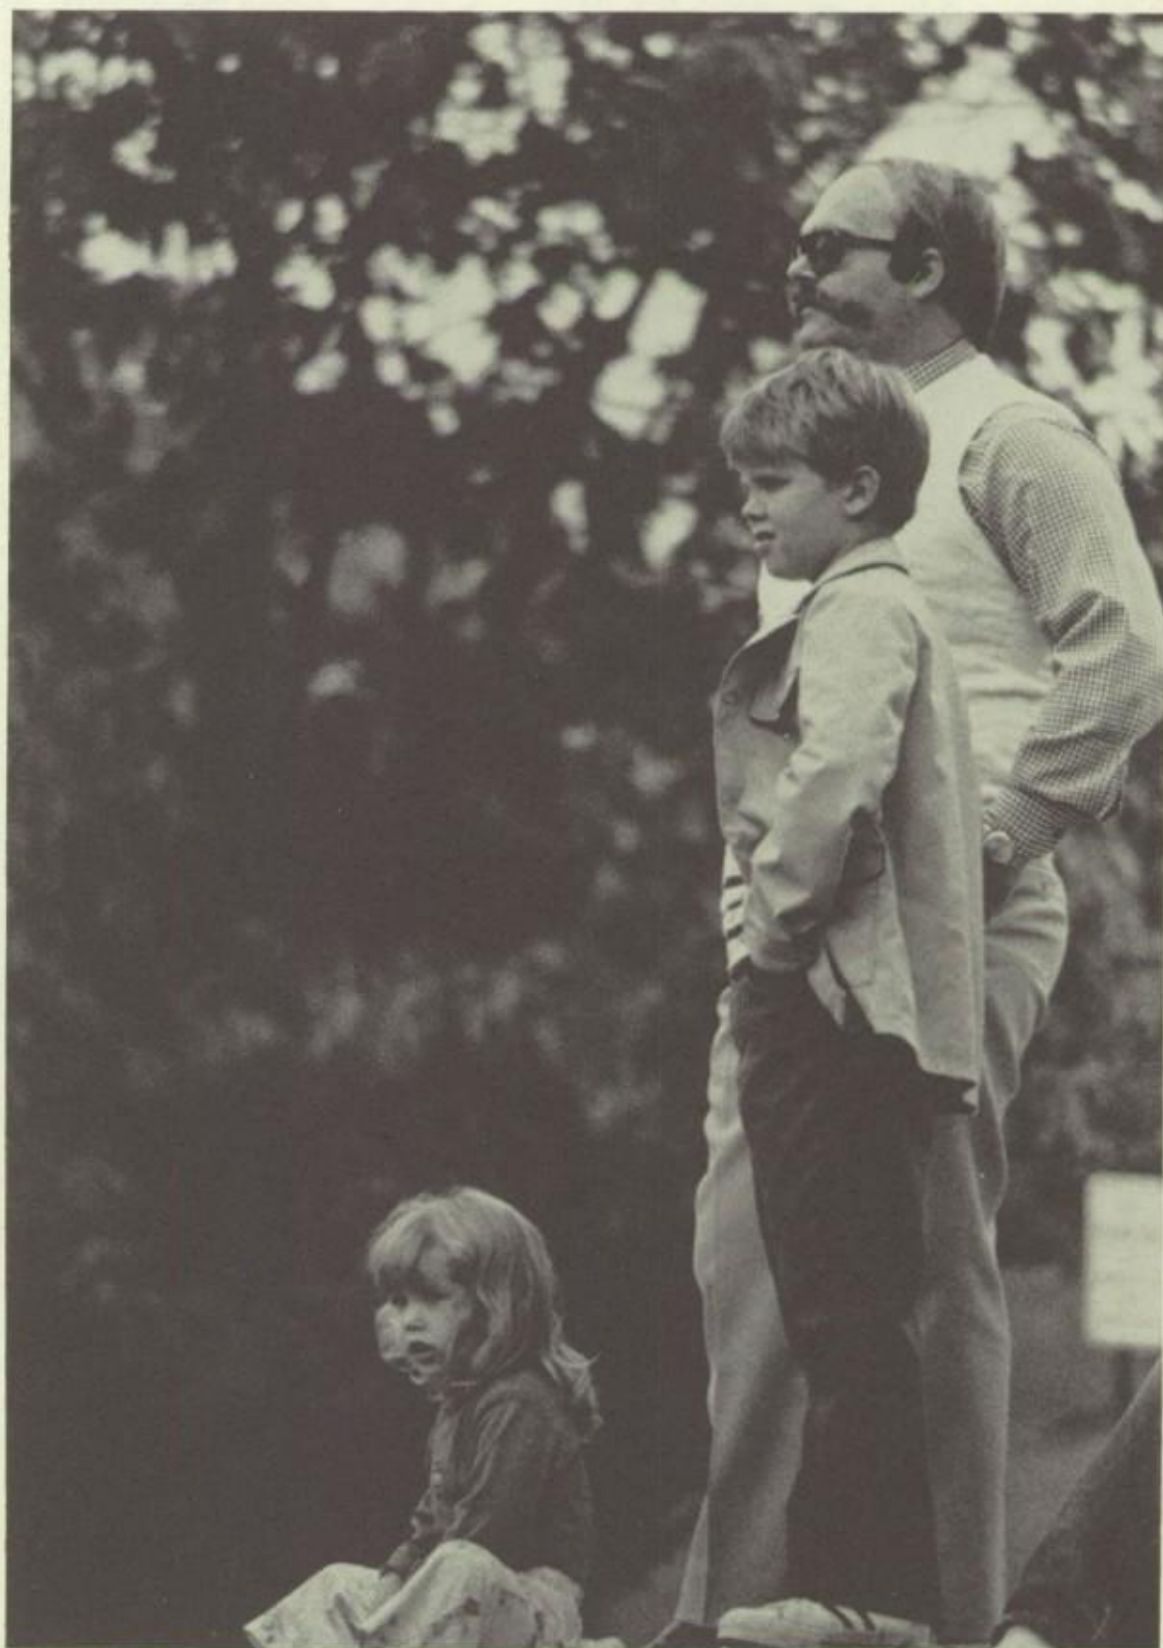

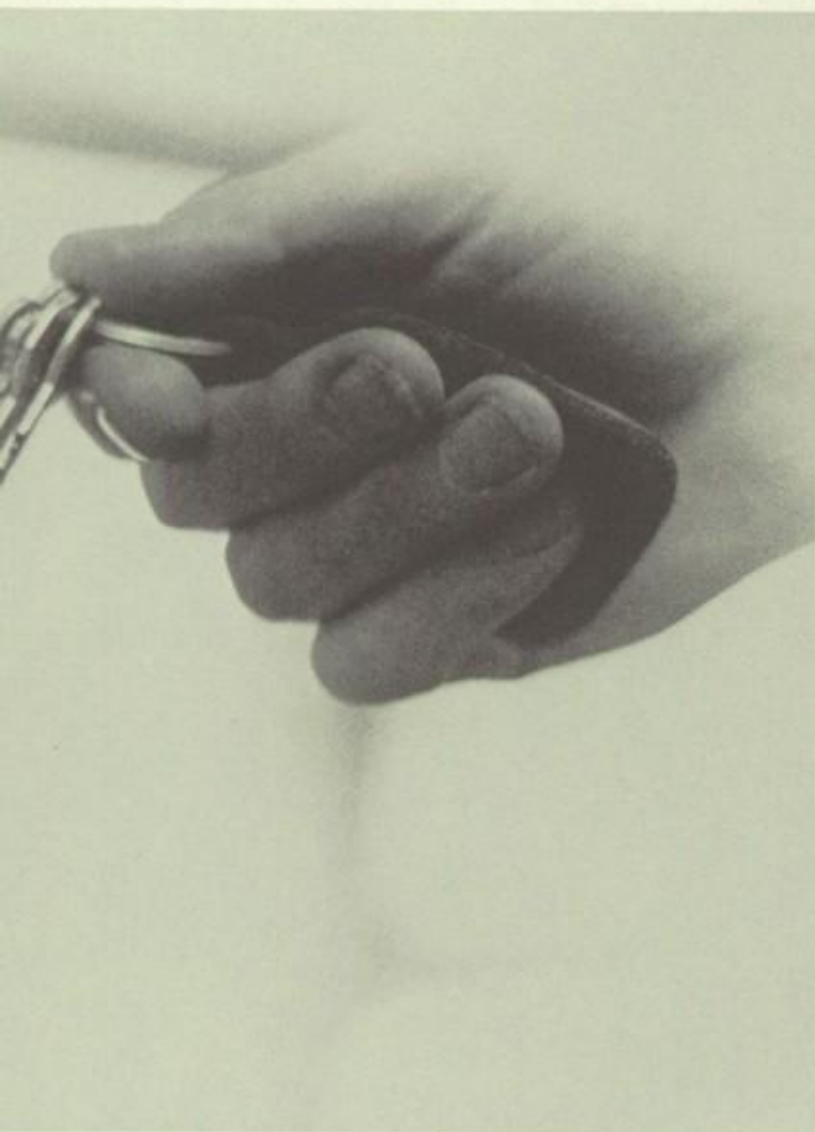

What can I give my parents? A nice essay — kind of sentimental & look back and cry. But when I think about it, what have my parents given me? A puppy, a rainbow of crayons, countless bandaids, 16 birthday cakes, (blue roses on white icing, HAPPY BIRTHDAY MARYELLEN, MATTHEW and MARK, make a wish!). I'd always wish for prince charming on a shining white steed. (I wonder what Matt and Mark wished for?). My parents took me to Disney World and sent me to camp. They've paid my phone bills and lent me their car. They've come to see me play and sing and act and dance. They patted me on the shoulder and told me I was grand. My parents gave me my name, (with good intentions), and they gave me my life. But I can't give them any of that; their parents already have — what're parents for? I owe them my love, and my smile — but those I have given to strangers, too. I once brought my parents daisies, because they were pretty. I guess that's about all I can give them. I hope that's enough.

And you, of the tender years
Can't know the fears
That your elders grew by.
And so please help them with your youth.
They seek the truth before they can die.

Teach your children well
Their father's hell will slowly go by.
Don't you ever ask them why,
If they told you, you would cry,
So just look at them and sigh,

and know they love you

If you think that one individual can't make a difference in the world, consider what one cigar can do in a nine-room house.

The true test of a civilization is, not the census, nor the size of the cities, nor the crops — no, but the kind of man the country turns out.

Dear Seniors:

Now that we are about to graduate, we, the officers, would like to express our sincere gratitude to each of you for the help you have given us. We have enjoyed working with all of you for the past few years through the good, the bad, and even the ugly. Although we did have some flops (paper drive), we had more than our share of successes (magazine sale). But throughout all of our endeavors we had fun, and that's what it's all about.

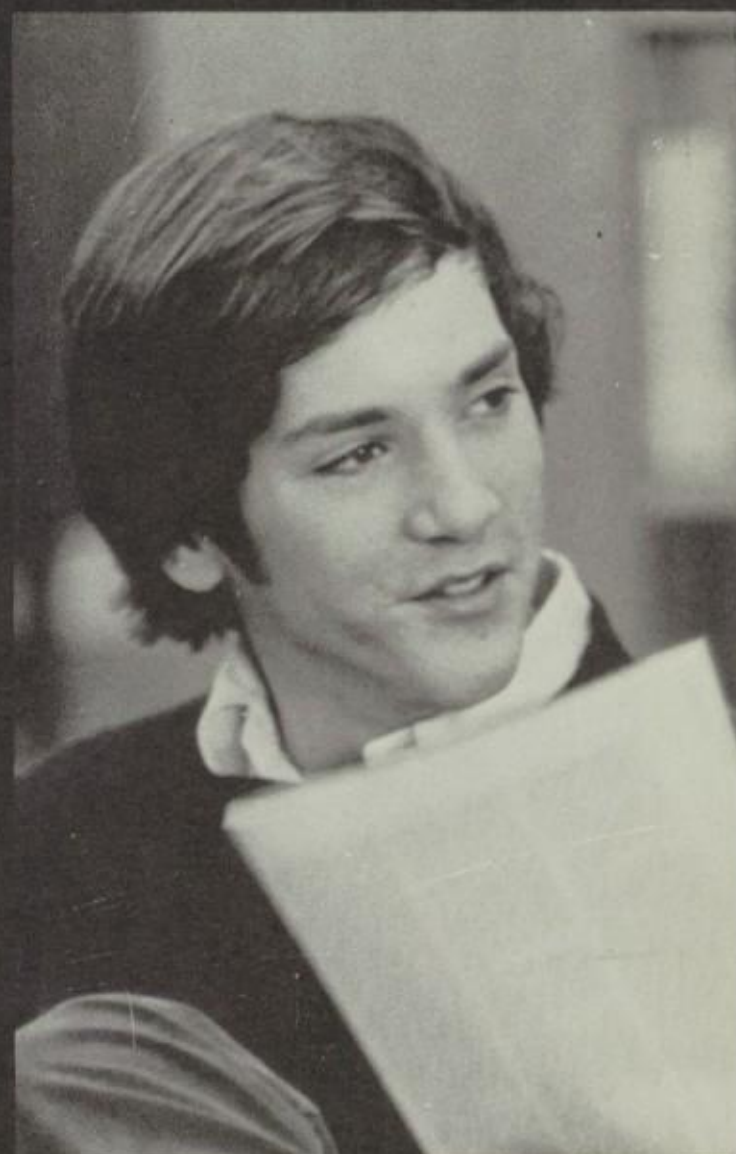

With high school almost over we can all look back and remember with pride the things we've accomplished, the people we've met, and the friends we've made.

Thank you Class of 1977.

AND LEISURE

In past years the yearbook has separated the faculty and activities into two sections. This year we've changed all that, because we think the two belong together. Some of the best things that happen around Radnor occur between teachers and students. This interaction is what education is all about. It happens in the classroom, cafeteria, and after school in activities and sports.

The next 48 pages represent an effort on our part to unite the academic and social aspects of Radnor High School. They have both contributed equally to our education.

"Let schoolmasters puzzle their brain,
With grammar, and nonsense, and learning,
Good liquor, I stoutly maintain,
Gives genius a better discerning."

"Tis education forms the common mind:
Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined"

"With them the seed of Wisdom did I sow,
And with mine own hand wrought to make it grow,
And this was all the Harvest that I reaped —
I came like Water, and like Wind I go."

When people sit down to write,
 They suddenly become mysterious.
 They want to be deep and relevant;
 To write about rain, love, and
 loneliness.
 People should be creative,
 Write about things they know,
 Like mud, music, or fatigue;
 Real things, we know them
 To be true. Love, rain, and loneliness
 Will lose their charm next time

MEMORANDUM TO ALL STUDENTS 11

September 1976

Welcome back! We trust that you had an enjoyable summer vacation.

It is that time of year when once again you must choose your English courses for next year. The 340-page English Elective Catalogue, distributed with this memorandum, briefly describes your possible electives. As you will see we have cut the number of courses almost in half, leaving you with a mere 1,500 from which to choose, (one per student). We regret that we could not include many of the courses that students suggested; however, we simply do not have the staffing to provide Grammer, Spelling, or a class which would encompass a varied reading selection. If you wish to read you must choose from one of the electives: Adolescent Lit, Children's Lit, Family Lit, Fantasy Lit, Great Books, Not-So-Great Books, Research Reading, Speed Reading, Free Reading, Re-reading, or English Elective Catalogue Reading, to name a few.

This form must be returned to your homeroom teacher, in triplicate, by Friday. It must be signed by you, your parents, if you are under eighteen, your counselor, Mrs. Knupp, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Chidester, Mr. Springer, and the janitor who sweeps the English office. If one of your course choices is Children's Literature, your form must also be signed, x'd, or crayoned by a child.

A classic is something that everybody wants to have read and nobody wants to read.

INTERNATIONAL CORNER:

This year we had six exchange students from four different countries: Dominique Lordat and Jean-Pascal Crouzet from France; Eriko Takemura from Japan; Sandra Beck from Switzerland; and finally Harold Gorgulla and Thomas Kempin from Germany.

Everybody enjoyed Radnor very much and would like to thank everyone who made this year possible. We especially liked the open and friendly way of the American people. School here was different and everybody thought that the school system was better and easier than in our home countries. Some advantages of Radnor were the sports program which everyone participated in.

Parties and the Lower Merion Football game were some of the great events around the school. We felt very much at home in Radnor and we're going to miss it very much.

This year was one of the most unforgettable experiences in our lives.

Thank you.

I really enjoyed our good friendship with it was really weird as having a serious talk. I hope to see you on one of the ski slopes again, whenever it'll be.

at Brown we went to. There's a lot for the first time we had. Of course for a while year. We had a lot of fun with all our plants. The first we went by 50 feet, and I am almost ready to go back home. (to High School).

Yo fui una maestra en Cuba . . . y . . . un día, de esos que no tenemos allá pero sí aquí, lo que ustedes llaman "April Fools," me casé con un joven llamado Enrique que en aquél entonces tenía bigote y ya fumaba tabacos . . . Por supuesto, éstas eran cubanos y de la mejor calidad, que aquí en E.E.U.U. son muy difíciles de conseguir y muy caros cuando se encuentran. Con él tuve cuatro hijos, tres niñas y un solo niño llamado como él. Todos han pasado por Radnor siendo Lucía este año la última en graduarse de aquí. ¡Qué horror tener cuatro niños en la misma escuela donde una enseñó! La de chismes y cuentos que se oyen. Lo mismo los oyen mis hijos que yo . . . Que si soy loca, que si soy ésto que si lo otro . . . que si tal professor o profesor es simpático o pesado que si ensena bien, que si no ensena que si le gusta "Fulano" o "Mengana" . . . ¡Ay Dios Mio! Pero han sido años felices en general aunque siempre haya pequeños disgustos. De todas estas cosas está formada la vida de todos. O lloramos juntos o reímos juntos y ésto hemos hecho en Radnor todos estos años que llevo aquí. Para mi, al perder mi patria gané otra y otra más. Una grande, los E.E.U.U. y otra pequeña, Radnor, que no quiero perder, pues después de mi esposo, mis hijos, y familia no hay nada que quiera más que todo lo que Radnor encierra.

Con amor,

You are trudging down I 95 behind a traveling tortoise. He is carrying two suitcases full of 24 jars of maraschino cherries each. He stops every  $\frac{3}{4}$  of a mile to deliver  $\frac{1}{8}$  of a jar of cherries. He picks up a speed of .005 mph with every jar he delivers. If he can deliver  $2\frac{9}{8}$  of a jar in  $3\frac{1}{4}$  hours, and there are no openings on the Penrose Avenue Bridge, and given a wind velocity of 26.731 kilometers per hour out of the south-southwest, when will he arrive in Baltimore, Maryland, and in what city will he be when he runs out of cherries?

Math Club

Have you ever gone to the math office to have a question answered? If you have then you know what I'm talking about, but if you haven't, allow me to describe the phenomenon which occurs.

As you approach the office, you will start feeling very inferior. It is impossible not to feel this way because unlike in other department offices, the math teachers are actually working and your question will no doubt interrupt something of grave importance. Above the door is a sign that reads, "Students Do Not Enter." This sign is not a request; it is a challenge. I have never, in my four years at Radnor, seen a student impregnate the math office.

You can stand there unnoticed in the doorway for an entire day, but as soon as you take one step inside, every teacher will simultaneously turn around and stare at you.

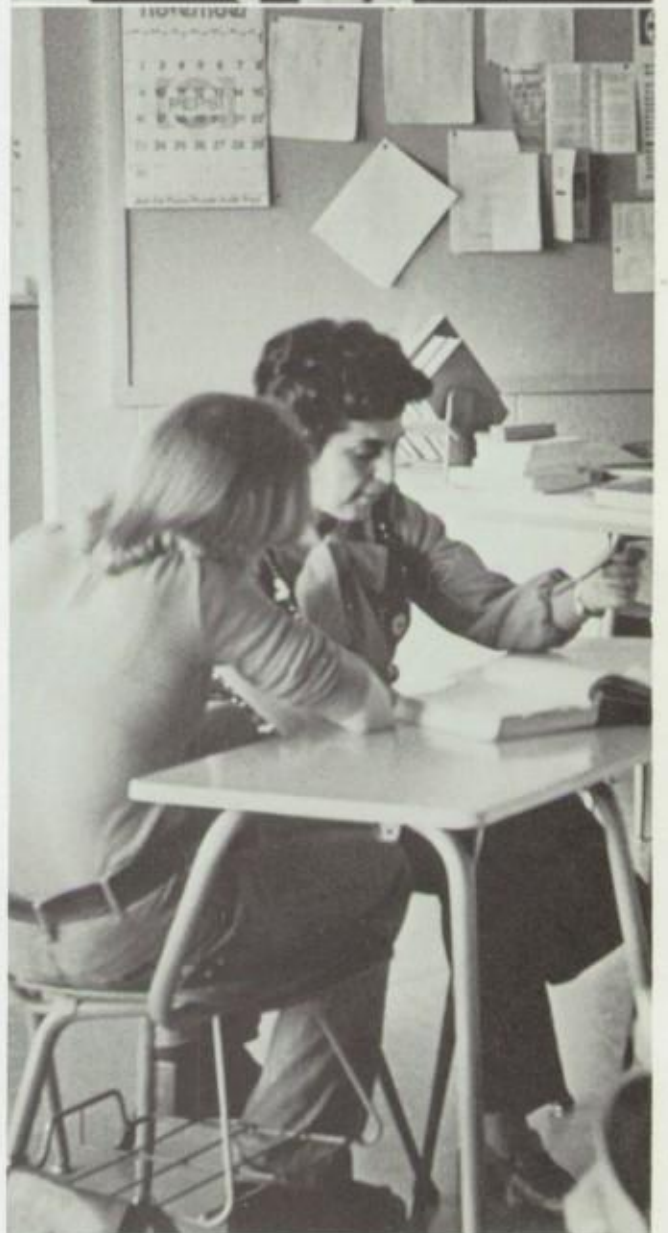

The walls of the office are lined with the teachers at their desks. There is not one piece of paper out of place and everything looks very establishmentarian except for the one token hippie by the door. In the back of the office, looking directly at you and disguised as a southern belle is their leader, the devil's advocate.

You stand there trembling as she coldly inquires, "Do you need any help?"

Too petrified to speak, you whimper, "Is Mrs. Miller there?"

She knows you're wavering now and she intends to take full advantage of the situation. "No. She is not."

By now you just want to escape, so you bow your head, back away from the door and hightail it down the hallway. As you are running, you can hear in the distance the laughing, shouting and hand slapping of the clan as they line up to congratulate their leader for another job well done.

The Superintendent of the Radnor School District is Dr. John C. Crosby. His counterpart in the high school is Principal Donald Anderson.

If you ever have a problem of any sort, you can always go to see Mr. Anderson. However, if Mr. Anderson is out pole-vaulting somewhere, you'll have to talk to Mr. Chidester. But you may not find him around when you want him, only when you don't want him. Since he's not in his office, you're sent to Mrs. Knupp, who's disappeared amid reams of IBM print-out sheets. On to Fitzy's office, but, as always, his door is closed. So you have to traipse back upstairs to see Mrs. Curley, and chances are she will be able to solve your problem because she runs the school anyway.

FRESHMAN FROLICS

"Yaaaaaaaah." I think I must be allergic to the early hours. I used to hate getting out of bed in the morning, but I cured that. Now I sleep on the floor. Enough of this, I have to really rush to get ready for school.

After walking nose first into a wall, I have to pour my milk, eat my cereal, brush my teeth, get dressed, and forget my yearbook money. I have done all this in exactly seven minutes flat.

Waiting at the bus stop is not my idea of a good time. The time here moves so slowly — either time or my bus! The longest I've held a conversation with an upperclassman was not over five minutes; yet it has been ten, then twenty, then forty minutes before the bus has arrived. Maybe I should start talking to myself. Finally, I hear the strained engine of Bus 13 coming up the hill.

When riding the bus, Freshmen must be submissive; you see, seniors fold us up under the bus seats. Actually, it is so crowded on the bus you must say, "Excuse me," before you can exhale. I especially like the bus rides with the windows frozen open. A little fresh air is always nice. One hour and 10,000 speed bumps later, we arrive at Radnor High School.

I don't know much about my first period class, band, because my eyes don't open before nine o'clock. I have to read my music in Braille. In this class we try to play together, but the only song we know is "The Horse." We go on the football field and talk. Between talking, we march around to keep warm. Sometimes it gets so cold the mouthpieces stick to your lips. Upperclassmen are always yelling in my ear to march right, "LEFT! RIGHT! LEFT!" It's amazing that everyone else can be out of step but me.

Between naps in biology, I am advised of the many projects that are due. My favorite is the scaly aphid collection for which we must collect (during December) 497 different species of scaly aphids.

After that I have a free period, except that it is really never free. Once during this time, I wrote a whole English composition. On the average, I have to do math and Latin homework, complete two or three major grade projects, not to mention studying for at least one major test, plus writing out my debate plans to counter Bernice in history (not to mention Mr. Holt), and, last but not least, I have to practice my concerto audition for concert band. Some days I even have time to go to the bathroom.

Many freshmen participate in the intramural sport of changing classes. I like it because it is part contact sport, part track event. If you don't mind my saying so, I'm the school champion. I actually made it from "A" wing to "B" wing in less than twenty minutes.

Lunch is no longer my favorite time of day. My once tasty sandwich is squished out of recognition. Every time I take a bite of food, someone rushes towards me pleading for a quarter. I give him my sandwich instead.

I've had all my classes and have been assigned over eight hours of homework. Now we come to the highlight of the day — catching the bus before it departs. After opening my unreachable top locker shelf, I have to chase my falling books and notebooks and papers sailing down the hall . . . . .

I had an interesting dream last night. It was about our football team; let me tell it to you.

It started in mid-August, getting up at seven o'clock and practicing all day in 100 degree weather. Meanwhile, we all thought of the beaches, the surf, the sun, cool refreshing water . . . but instead we were here, pushing the sled, running, banging heads. We had all had a dream the year before, and saw it all crumble in one short afternoon in late October. It would not slip away again; we wouldn't let it. That was why we were there.

For three weeks we trained, and after success in two scrimmages against Pope Pius X, and Chester, the long awaited Labor Day weekend was upon us. While we rested, we pondered the impending season.

In two more weeks Carroll was upon us, and we knew not what to expect, but we had a dream, and we wouldn't let it slip away.

We taught Carroll, but it did not matter, for Ridley was next, the great green machine from the south.

Again we were victorious, but now came Salesianum, the Delaware powerhouse who seemed to have every player over 200 pounds.

After defeating the Sallies, we became the most feared team in the area, because we had a dream, and we wouldn't let it slip away.

We defeated Penncrest on homecoming and Haverford the following week. Then came Upper Darby, who put up a good fight, but they could not awake us from our dream.

Conestoga, at night. They did it last year . . . no, not two years in a row. But then a fumble on the opening kickoff, and several plays later a touchdown, and we were down 7-0. A grim moment for the fans, but we had a dream, and we wouldn't let it slip away. The weather got colder, and players grew tired, and bruised, but we persevered. Final score, Radnor 24, Conestoga 14.

We put Marple-Newtown away handily, and with only two games left it appeared as if our dream would become a reality.

However, against Springfield, we found this assumption to be false. In the first half we were run over, stepped in, blown out, ground in, and humiliated. As we took over the field for the second half, we were greeted by a tremendous uproar from the Radnor stands. Such faithful support quickly reminded us; we had a dream, and we wouldn't let it slip away. Through a surge of emotion, we battled back to take the lead and the game, 15-14.

It only left arch-rival Lower Merion in our way. It was a typically hard-fought L.M. game. But we had a DREAM and we didn't let it slip away. . .

Raiders Rip Ridley

Some 20 odd players, each with his own pre-game routine, prepared for the most important game of the season, perhaps their careers. The music of Frampton, now a ritual, was the only sound save for the noise of players dressing. As we went out to the field, the normal pre-game banter was curiously absent. The game started, the Radnor players' excitement was etched in each face. As the game progressed, it was obvious who wanted this game more. For more than ten minutes at the outset, the ball reached the Radnor defensive half once. After jumping out to a 2-0 lead, the Ridley team rallied to a tie led by their all-state lineman Sean Naber. A lesser team would have quit, but the Raider team scored twice and the defense held the highly touted Ridley offense at bay. As the clock wound down slowly, the Radnor players began to realize that the game had been won. One by one fists were raised in triumph. When the horn went off, the Radnor players mobbed the field led by their dignified coach who was seen grinning foolishly and hugging his co-captain. Joyously, the Raiders returned to the locker room shouting and pounding each other. For this was a win they wanted, and it sent them on the road to a narrow miss with a Championship and to one of the best seasons ever.

A Day in the Life of a Golf Team Member

I woke up this morning and was teed off because mom wouldn't let me drive the Caddie to school today. My dad received the dividend from his stock option and was able to give me some extra lunch money. After I got to school, I turned green because I had forgotten my homework. It was a rough problem and I thought I was trapped. I was about to bag the problem when I realized that I didn't have that class because of a Golf Match. Lunchtime rolled around and I was pretty hungry so I went up to Sears and ate a Club sandwedge. I went back to school and remembered that I had to draw a chart for Physics. On the way to the library I hooked my foot in the door, stuck a pencil in the Spanish exchange student putting a hole in Juan. I had missed so many Physics classes that Mr. Wood had a tough time deciding a fair way to derive my grades; I was on the fringe between an A and a B. But he soon ironed the problem out and I was excused thinking about our motto, "Old golfers never die, they just fade away."

Pre-season predictions weren't anything spectacular. The press wasn't planning on our team drawing much attention as a Central League contender, right from the start we had something to prove. So we started beating people, knocking 'em off one by one, and building up a solid record. Finally, we had only to beat Upper Darby to clinch the first half title, and a post-season playoff birth. We won that night, and played out the second half of the season which Conestoga won. It was more than a game that was on the line the night we met 'Stoga for the championship. We had met twice before during the season, and both had been vicious contests, with each of us emerging victorious once. We lost that night in the waning seconds of the game, but four days later we had a game against Bensalem, which we won. That win assured us of something Radnor Basketball teams had been talking, half-joking about doing for as long as we could remember. The '76-'77 Raiders, with the best record in over 15 years, the team nobody expected much from back in November, we went to the Palestra . . .

If there is one thing that is consistently true of every Radnor sports team it's the fact that they are constantly underestimated. They are underestimated by the newspapers, the fans, and most importantly, their opponents.

The Raider Matmen were no exception, and like all the other teams the Raider grapplers used it to their advantage. Although the Radnor wrestlers had compiled nine wins against only four defeats, over the season, the biggest win of all came about using this very situation of underestimation.

The match occurred the day the Raiders took their act to LM. The Aces were just a little too cocky. When the coach came back to give his usual pre-match pep talk, one knew it was going to be a special match, and the Aces found that out right off the bat. When it was all over you didn't have to ask who won, all you had to do was look at Coach "Shoe." He didn't stop smiling for two weeks. You could tell that even if the Raiders had gone one and twelve, Skip Shoemaker would have been happy just as long as that one was that very same win over LM.

Linda -
 What can one say about 4 years at Rednor besides that it's been real. It was great having science with Mr. Pennell, I think? Good luck in the years to come and I hope to see you in the future.

 enter perfect, and get better.

Failure is the condiment that gives success
 its flavor.

A hero is no braver than anyone else; he is only brave five minutes longer.

One loss is good for the soul. Too many losses are not good for the coach.

Linda,

When ever I think of skiing I'll think of Austria and the fantastic times we all had there, You and I going on that lesson with Woffie. The interesting meals we had there. Staying up for like 30 hours on the way over. Partying on the bus, Everyone getting rowdy, Going to Kitzbuhel and the bars, The Tavern down the street that we would go to at night. Your tongue turning black from getting sick and cigarettes, you quitting smoking - that lasted pretty long, The same breakfast every morning. Always having to figure out shillings into American money. Skiing on the unbelievable tips. Everyone zonking out on the way home, All the parties at Radnor, going to Kathys for lunch (sometimes) me driving you home from stuart's party that night. I'm glad I got to Homecoming Queen Kelly Bradley and her court, Jenny Murphy, Sue Cosgerea, Terry Thompson, and Bonnie Lewis.

A boat beneath a sunny sky,
Lingering onward dreamily,
In an evening of July —

Children three that nestle near,
Eager eye and willing ear,
Pleased a simple tale to hear —

Long has faded that sunny sky:
Echoes fade and memories die:
Autumn frosts have slain July.

Still she haunts me, phantomwise,
Alice moving under skies
Never seen by waking eyes.

Children yet the tale to hear,
Eager eye and willing ear,
Lovingly shall nestle near.

In a Wonderland they lie,
Dreaming as the days go by,
Dreaming as the summers die:

Ever drifting down the stream —
Lingering in the golden gleam —
Life, what is it but a dream?

Well I wandered much further today than I should,
 And I can't seem to find my way back to the wood . . .
 . . . Back to the days of Christopher Robin,
 Back to the ways of Pooh.

"What is a teen-ager?"
I was asked one day.
I knew what he was,
But what should I say?"
He is noise and confusion.
He is silence that's deep.
He is sunshine and laughter,
Or a cloud that will weep.
He is swift as an arrow.
He's a waster of time.
He wants to be rich,
But can't save a dime.
He is rude and nasty.
He is polite as can be.

He wants Parental guidance,
 But fights to be free.
 He is aggressive and bossy.
 He is timid and shy
 He knows all the answers,
 But still will ask, "Why?"
 He is awkward and clumsy.
 He is graceful and poised.
 He is everchanging,
 But don't be annoyed.
 "What is a teen-ager?"
 I was asked one day.
 He is the Future unfolding;
 Don't stand in his way.

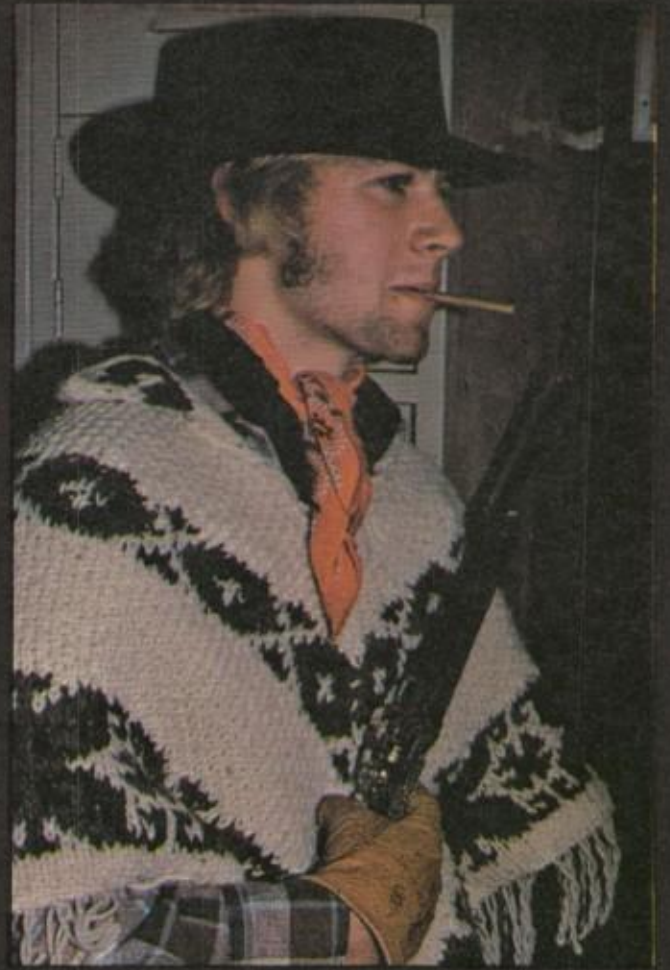

. . . I've seen the past . . .

The fool has one great advantage over a man of sense — he is always satisfied with himself.

He who would make a fool of himself will find many to help him.

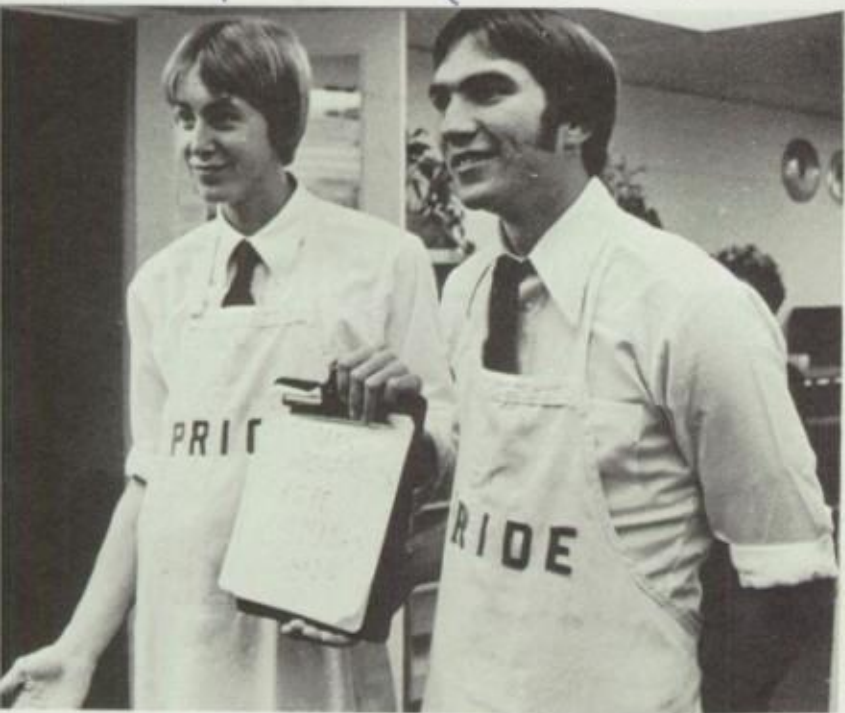

A man becomes the creature of his uniform.

A fool can no more see his own folly than he can see his own ears.

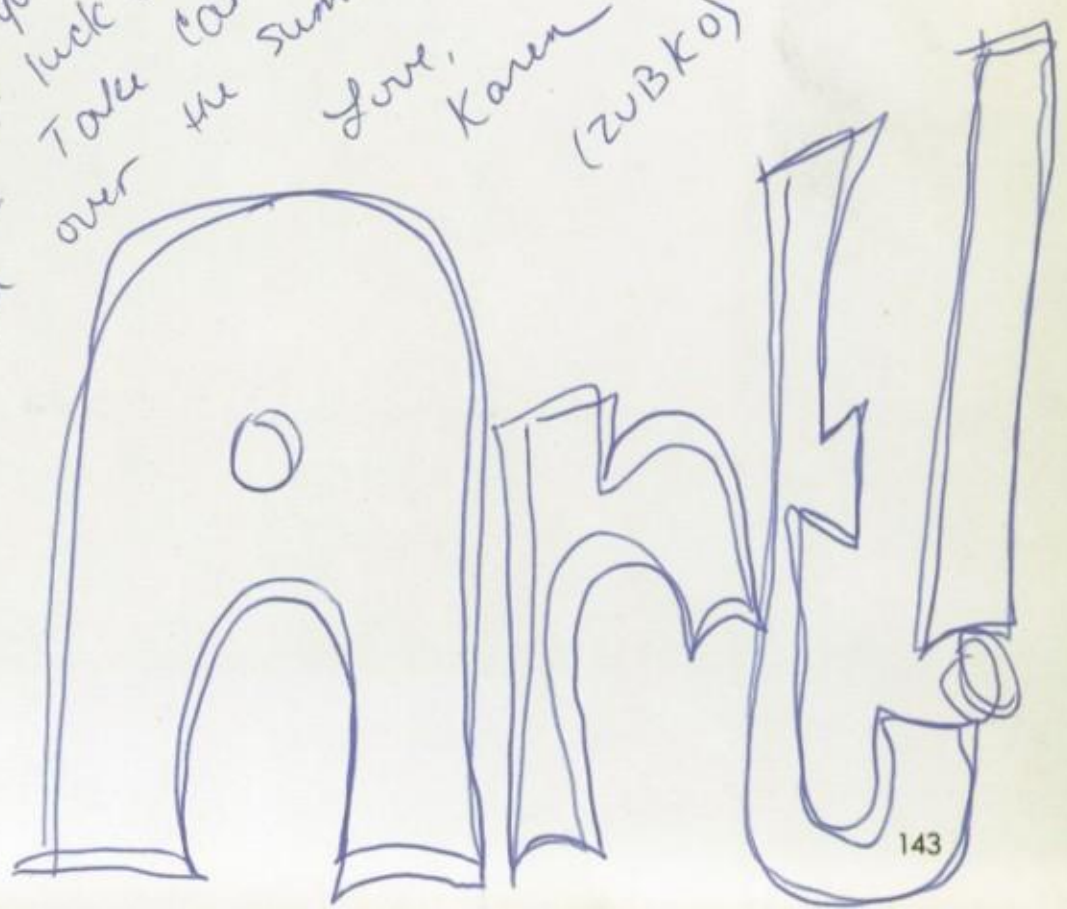

Dear Linda,
 I can't believe you finally got me to write this - thanks for the $5. I thought it would be appropriate to miss a terrific box of crayons - except we've had a lot of great times and won't come to a close with our senior year. "Don't forget" - Halloween... swimming at Laurie's, Annes, - your crazy parties... me being grounded + we snuck over to Gary's... all the times trying + talking about fixing up you + Ken... The Proms... Sr Prom... your dinner party... "I CAN'T STOP!!" ... the progressive dinner party... your surprise party... breaking the hammock... taking those pictures (one even got out of here!!) ... all Denis other parties... Trust in me, I'll try to do Everything to help you that I can
 Broken wings can heal and mend again

SMILE . . .

inda, senior year
 finally coming to close. It has been much fun. Remember with Chris and Ken
 up at spring flound-
 air and Camel Back.
 Namy parties. Senior
 dress up day - crayola crayons!! Ken and Kate's dinner was going with (delicious) and who was going with who.
 parties - champagne!!
 parties (delicious) and parties. at least we
 in all the lunch in the
 you would at SMV. I'm sure I'll see you a lot this summer. Take care. Love,
 Love,
 Love

The prom and your finally figuring out who
 the progressive dinner was I thought they were got dressed up once

A smile costs nothing but gives much. It enriches those who receive, without making poorer those who give. It takes but a moment, but the memory of it sometimes lasts forever. No one is so rich or mighty that he can get along without it, and no one is so poor but that he can be made rich by it. It brings rest to the weary, cheer to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad, and is Nature's best antidote for trouble. Yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed, or stolen, for it is something that is of no value to anyone until it is given away. Some people are too tired to give a smile. Give them one of yours, as no one needs a smile so much as he who has none to give.

Linda,

what can I say to someone who has meant so much to me? You're one of the nicest people I've ever met. The past 4 yrs. I've had some fantastic times, ones I'll never forget. You know you're just a baby and I hope that you always stay that way. The saying goes "Once a Texan, always a Texan" well my saying goes, "Once a baby, always a baby." By the way you are a Po too. Remember Biology? what a joke! Bug collections - Yek! What's there to say about 75 prom?

Ryse, Smack, Freddie's, "I seem to have to hit the sandbox again", "Here comes a slow dance, lets git"! Remember the Shore in April? Babymen Ninth grade - sitting in the cafe, "There's a gorgeous one" Gary - what can you say about him except, total mess up. Glenn - almost as bad. Remember your notes to Gay? what should I say about TRACK? I don't think I need to say anything. Your dress up B-day party at Kathys? Hmmm. How about Madame Kaas - bunny rabbit dresses. Pretending we can play tennis in gym. Shore last summer killing flies. Black tongue, ~~the~~ long, and toe disease. Ciggy time. Sure you quit. Loonie balloons. Kates many parties. Andy Anderson with Ralph, Moof... Many, many football games + everything that went along with them. The prom - DECENT. Your 77 dinner party was great. Getting pictures taken, not so great. "who are you?" "No I'm bob, you're Dibby." Before, during, and after, great! John Harkins' party. Let me say it was an experience. Charcoal broiled down at the shore. Check out the scene. There are so many more things I could say but of course you probably remember them too. I'll never forget. I can't believe that we actually made it through 4 long yrs. of weird teachers, kids, and experiences. (speaking of weird, don't ever, ever forget wirehead with her organizer purse) Please don't ever change chick, you've got something really special. In Life — so they say

Is but a game and they let it slip away
Love — like the Autumn sun
Should be dying but it's only just begun
Like the twilight in the road up ahead
They don't see just where we're goin'
And all the secrets in the universe
Whisper in our ears and all the years will come and go
And take us up, always up

Dreams — so they say
Are for fools and they let them drift away
Peace — like the silent dove
Should be flyin' but it's only just begun
Like Columbus in the olden days
We must gather all our courage
Sail our ship out on the open sea
Cast away our fears and all the years will come and go
And take us up — always up
So I wanna laugh while the laughin' is easy
I wanna cry if it makes it worthwhile
We may never pass this way again . . .

Years from now you'll look back and remember your "best friends" in elementary school, 105 pound football, the kid who sat next to you in geometry, trying to find your way around the high school. You're grown now, and beginning a life of your own. New places, experiences, different friends. But when that pang of memory hits too strong to ignore, remember . . .
. . . long distance is the next best thing to being there.

The past eight months have been spent in an effort to collect all of our memories into one book which will last a lifetime, as the memories of these years surely will. It's been a combination of afternoons spent thinking, writing, poring over endless quotation collections, taking and sorting pictures; and long nights, working, typing, developing, cropping, proofreading, rewriting, and, yes, eating.

To all of those who were here through everything — even 1:00 am snowstorms — Crafty, Messy, Clarkie, Kate, Tok, Preppie, Betsy, "Dad", and the rest.

Thanks,
Phran

Linda,

Where I should start I don't know. I'm just writing about this year. If you want to see the others, look in your other year books! Since we are listening to Danny Boy let's talk about him. Yumm! He's such a hunk and plays so well. I can't wait for that concert. We've been to so many concerts. Bruce Springstein was the best. Remember jamming 50 million people in Jamies car on the way back? There have been some pretty good parties even though Mr. Fitz got in the way. Remember staying at my uncles and skiing at Camelback, then Anne's car breaking down on the highway - on New Years eve no less! At least we made it back by twelve! Our progressive dinner turned out pretty good I'd say. The preparation for it was pretty decent too. Making peasant soup - yum! Parties back behind marks were all ways a blast. You were a damn good bartender at one of them! "Who are those shadows behind that tree?" The shore last summer was so much fun. "Smile", the island party, the little house party and the mold - yuck!, Eagles mere - ~~the~~ tying up Danial and Kenny, Danial trying to eat the whole cake ending up choking, the gazebo, our fantastic sailing race - we really won right? Walking up to the P.D. and the F.H. all summer. (The F.H. here does not imply the meaning we learned in Austria). Speaking of Austria - That was much fun. Getting loaded in Kennedy Airport, on the plane on the bus - you were so giddy on that bus, Finally getting there and seeing those mountains! And my god! Peter. Showing us our bedroom. He was much cuter the first night though. The bars, the great food - pork (yuck), the black tongue disease. I have a question to ask - did you ever look at your toenails? That was pretty funny I must admit. Getting away with a free lunch on the top of the Hahne Kam - yeaher. Leaving that gorgeous place was hard to do. We must go back. Oh, wait one second I almost forgot Martin. Now, he was a hunk! We almost got to Florida, oh, well you can't win them all. Biology was pretty good. You finally snagged Tom. Mr. Pennel was a good old man. Do you realize that class is over with for us?! Yippee. or "Tip-You" should I say. "Mingle, Mingle" - that got us only kidding. You'll get him one of these days until then keep the faith. I'm not going to say good-bye yet since we've got the whole summer and our "Catering business" in store for us. Also a week at the shore - Yip-You! well, my hand is falling off even though I know I've left out a million things. Take care.

Love
Kathy
